Abstract

How can history be looked at? Can it be considered the value of the event, and what results from it? Or is it the way we look into it in such a way avoiding looking at other down. This is considering that time and people played the main role in shaping it. But the reality in that the deep look into the historical period and in the mental formation of any certain people leads to diminishing evaluation principles which scholars relay on in evaluating peoples and civilizations. Meanwhile, the logic of time indicates that despite its holistic nature of civilization, each nation and people have their own peculiarities that is distinct from others. It is that relativity that has the certain contribution in searching within the humanity soul deep where there is good, prosperity and happiness.
